

Present: Tom Rankin (Chair), Don Dutton, Jan Hopkins, Graeme Bonham-Carter, Liz Snider, Terry Lee, Wynn Turner, Jacques Pelletier, Peter McKenna (Executive Director), Onalee Randell (Director, Community Services), Kelly Robinson (Director, Primary Health Care), Judy Harting (recorder),
1.	Welcome, regrets & absences	The Board Chair welcomed everyone. Quorum was in place. Regrets: Wendy Quarry, Ian Donald, Ainsley Charles; Christina Dolgowicz is still on leave Peter McKenna will leave at 6:30 for another commitment.
2.	Declaration of Conflict of Interest	None declared.
3.	RVDS/TMS Presentation	Onalee Randall, Director, Community Services gave a presentation on the programs covered by Community Services, focusing on High Risk Chiropody. The SE LHIN has one of the highest amputation rates in Ontario. A full time chiropodist handles the RCHS program, which makes the RCHS program unique. The primary goal is to increase access to a chiropodist; offering program to people with open ulcers who have no benefit coverage. Chiropody isn't covered by OHIP. The initial visit is by referral from a health care provider; then patient can self-refer. Program results this fiscal year: 159 clients for a total of 726 encounters. Wait time is usually just 3-5 days, but high demand may change that. Initially the service was not offered to those in long term care facilities, but a pilot has just started with three clients. The Board was very interested in this presentation, and looks forward to learning more about the results.
4.	Approval of Agenda	MOTION: That the agenda be approved with item 8j deferred to next meeting Moved by Liz Snider, seconded by Jacques Pelletier, Carried
5.	Generative Discussion	The Chair invited Onalee Randell and Kelly Robinson to participate in the generative discussion of the question “What are we afraid of?” based on the healthcare system. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The flavour of the month tendency – the government wanting to re-brand things. - Change of government can bring a change in focus on what is the “flavour of the month” issues – mental health, bullying, etc. rather than the non-exciting issues of maintenance and ongoing basic primary care, basic dental care for your children. - An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure – teaching people to live healthier lifestyles to decrease the risk of chronic illness is as important as dispensing the ongoing chronic care required now - Cost of living increases and salary increases are not the same. - In order to succeed in rebuilding a general health system, you need the public on side – and the average person doesn't understand what is going on – alphabet soup of acronyms. - People don't know how much their health care actually costs; decisions will have to be made by primary care, rather than the government, about what services they can offer. - Fear that the people who have the key responsibilities don't take it on. - Lots of organizations who specialize, doing lots of marketing to promote their specialty... - Get better at communicating with the LHINs and encouraging them to communicate to the population what we deliver. - It is encouraging that funding is tight; when it was available it went to hospitals & salaries, and when money is tight it pushes change forward – how to do better/more with same/less funding.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Tight fiscal climate – boomers not satisfied with care they or their parents are receiving; will lead to transformation. - Tenacity is important in moving forward with the vision – the longer leaders are around the more successful they are – not due just to experience but also to lack of fear about moving forward/speaking out - Learning, trying things to see what ripples come out of trying – then adjusting to adapt to those unexpected outcomes. - Be encouraging to the LHIN and through them to the government about going forward with their vision - Publicly funded but privately delivered system in place now. - Programs targeted at prevention/health promotion will now start collecting OHIP numbers for everyone who is participating to see who is using the programs and permit better evaluation of program impacts. - Huge redistribution of funding going on; need to promote how much of healthcare is being done outside of hospitals. - Numbers need to prove that community based programs are contributing to improved health – how local communities step up to support those programs that are developing healthy communities. - People don't know what we are doing - need to develop a better communication plan to explain what it is we do – to use some solid examples of what we do and how it is to the population's advantage. - Used to be that people understood what the hospital and doctor did and when you went to each of them; so now you have to market and explain what each organization does and how & when to access them. - Baby boomers are better educated and more demanding than anyone before.
